Speaker Biographies

Jeffry Harris' career spans more than two decades in Ohio's economic development, largely from within government and now at Bricker. One of the firm's public finance attorneys, Jeffry's practice includes serving as counsel to local economic developers, and, since the onset of COVID-19, guiding public sector clients in deploying federal and state stimulus funds. At the state, county and city levels, Jeffry held various attorney and non-attorney public service roles. He began his career at the Ohio Department of Development (ODOD), where he spent 10 years managing the State's economic development grant portfolio, its job-creation tax incentives, and its state oversight of local property tax abatements. Jeffry left state service after holding the title of the agency's interim CFO. Jeffry then served as the economic development manager and assistant law director for the City of Worthington. Immediately prior to joining the Bricker team, Jeffry was the chief executive officer of the Area Development Foundation (Knox County, Ohio), a county-level nonprofit economic development organization; in this role, he also served as general counsel for the county land bank.

Scott Weisend, Director of Sales Operations. Scott has been with Sedgwick for 10 years. Prior to joining Sedgwick, Scott worked for 22 years with Frank Gates Service Company in a variety of roles including Assistant Vice President, State Fund and also Assistant Vice President, Self Insurance. Scott has also been Managing Director of Workers' Comp Services for the Ohio Manufacturers Association and Vice President at Exam Works over Ohio and West Virginia. In addition to his 35 year career in Ohio and National Workers' Compensation, Scott has a bachelor's degree from Ohio Dominican University in Criminal Justice.
